

MindTrust International LLC announces the official launch of the SEDNA MeshTech System, a universal solution to oil spills, pipeline ruptures and leaks worldwide.

St. Louis, MO (PRWeb) June 1, 2011 MindTrust International LLC is a collaborative for disruptive innovation in the world market in IT, Consumer & Industrial Goods and Services, and Business Systems and Services. Their most significant project to date has focused on the mitigation of loss of oil from hour one and resulted in the invention and commercialization of the SEDNA MeshTech System as a ‘first’ contingency plan for oil spill response and prevention, regardless of environment or condition.

The current MTI team is set to manage the execution of the SEDNA MeshTech System into the oil industry for the purposes of establishing a culture of safe oil drilling practices within the oil industry. Newly formed strategic partnerships to expedite the process are forthcoming.

Graham Rawlinson, PhD, as one of the original chief architects of the SEDNA MeshTech Solution and a facilitator of TRIZ, has been named to the post of Vice President of Product Development at SEDNA MeshTech while Kim Barrington and Gary Jinks will maintain their roles as CEO and VP Operations respectively for both MTI and SEDNA MeshTech. John Scott and Ron Jones both serve as advisors on the Board of Directors for SEDNA MeshTech Systems.

Teams and processes for continued development of the SEDNA MeshTech System are currently underway as are its funding options. Future announcements regarding same are forthcoming.

More detail regarding the capability of SEDNA MeshTech to control the uncontrollable flow of an oil spill the likes of BP’s Deepwater Horizon or worse as well as everyday pipeline ruptures and leaks can be found at www.sedmesh.com.

About MindTrust International LLC: MTI’s core competency is in the people who form MTI, hailing from all corners of the world, bringing their own specialties in professions and expertise, not only challenging the status quo, but also each other. What they have in common is the sense that society’s most vexing problems can only be solved through a complex make-up of minds and disciplines, regardless of role, ethnicity, gender or geographic location, to resolve them. In fact, MTI’s motto is “the more diverse, the better the result.”
